

When the owner and director of SageMED, Dr. Sage Wheeler, ND, found his practice rapidly growing and the number of providers increasing, he realized that they were quickly outgrowing their inventory and workflow requirements.

Dr. Wheeler, ND, knew he needed to find something that would streamline the workflow of his practice, while solving his inventory challenges. He decided to integrate his EHR with Fullscript and found immediate growth and success.

By the Numbers

11 years of clinical experience

5 years using Fullscript

8 years using ChARM

700-800 patient visits per week

Integration within our EHR allows for rapid prescribing, discounting to patients, and instant record keeping in the chart. I can't imagine having the growth we have experienced without it. “

The challenge

Before integrating his ChARM EHR with Fullscript, Dr. Wheeler, ND, found challenges as he brought on more providers to his rapidly growing practice.

“We simply did not have the shelf space to carry everything that was requested. Of course, we have always been able to dropship from Fullscript and other wholesalers, but the workflow was cumbersome and inefficient”

The solution

When Dr. Wheeler, ND, realized he could virtually dispense professional-grade supplements through his ChARM EHR, saving space, money, and increasing efficiency, he made the decision to integrate with Fullscript.

“[It’s a] good integration of all practice management software that was needed, also at an affordable price point.”

The result

Since integrating ChARM and Fullscript, Dr. Wheeler, ND, and SageMED have seen an increase in the ease and amount of ordering, as well as a significant increase in total revenue.

“As soon as I integrated, not only was it super easy for me, but it was easy for my patients as well. I’ve never had a single glitch on the ordering, and that’s what a patient wants.”

About Dr. Sage Wheeler, ND
